The Best Times of Year to Buy Furniture

It may seem like any time is a good time to swap tired furniture for newer, fresher pieces. But before you rush out to replace worn or damaged furnishings, consider timing your buys to get the best bang for your budget.

Indoor Furniture

New furniture styles are usually unveiled on a biannual schedule, making spring and fall the best times to splurge for new indoor furniture. But if you want to save some money, start researching the looks you like during these seasons, and then contact your local Indoff Sales Partner to get the best deals.

Outdoor Furniture

Like department stores needing to get rid of their coat inventory once winter is in full swing, outdoor furniture stores want to do the same with their supply by the middle of summer. If you see something you like when alfresco sets hit the market in April, bide your time until the Fourth of July. There will still be plenty of summer left to enjoy your outdoor furniture before the fall.

Holidays

Memorial Day and Independence Day are the best holidays to score great used pieces without spending a ton.
